

Congregational Youth Ministry At Your Service

Under the leadership of CH (CPT) Christopher Rice congregation-based youth ministry at USAG Rheinland Pfalz inspires young people and engages them in leadership within their religious community. Weekly meetings with opportunities for worship, study, fun and service attract growing numbers of youth and puts their gifts for ministry, including worship leadership roles as musicians and technicians, to work. One parent recently noted, "Our prayers seem to have been answered with this youth group that meets on Wednesday's at Pulaski Chapel. We have not yet had an opportunity to meet with or talk with CH Rice but are very appreciative of his heart and love for students. Our son is anxious about going to youth group each Wednesday night." Chapel Volunteer service from parents and congregation members strengthens faith-based relationships and community resilience. Studies indicate that the #1 predictor of a "Sticky Faith" that persists from youth into adulthood is participation in congregation-based, intergenerational youth ministry closely linked to community worship.
